

EXTRA

PRICE ONE CENT.

Thermometers Register 117 Degrees in the Sun This Morning.

All the Heat Records for June Beaten To-Day.

Two Deaths in Brooklyn and Many Prostrated in Both Cities.

With the same calm assurance that sustains an exposed spook medium First-Class Weather Observer Dunn insisted this morning that this was a cool summer and apologized for a delay in his weather report on the ground that two of his assistants, S. M. Standford and Francis Long, were detained from duty—knocked out by the heat!

The sergeant explained that Long was one of the Greely party of Arctic explorers, and that while he stood weather 56 degrees below zero in the frozen east on that excursion, he couldn't stand a little bit of warm weather, and slept the year round with his feet out of bed, to keep cool.

The weather sharp admitted, however, that those New Yorkers who thought that they had reached the furthest bounds of endurance in the 64-degree Government weather at 3.30 yesterday afternoon, would have a chance to make another guess, as the limit would surely be raised to-day by Old Sol, and his partner, Hugh Midgley.

William Wickerman, twenty-seven years old, of 44 Fourth street, Brooklyn, a driver for A. Newman, lumber dealer, was overcome by the heat at 7 o'clock this morning and removed to St. Catherine's Hospital, where he died a half hour later.

Giuseppe Demario, twenty-four years of age, of 44 Fourth street, Brooklyn, was overcome this morning at 481 Canal street, St. Vincent's Hospital.

Samuel Kitchin, twenty-seven, of 154 Summer avenue, Brooklyn, overcome at North Fifth street and Wythe avenue, Eastern District Hospital.

Phil Moore, thirty-two, of Court street, prostrated while working on new church at Jefferson and Brunswick avenues, St. Mary's Hospital.

Henry Dipper, twenty-nine, of 305 East Eighth street, a conductor on the First Grand street, was stricken down at 64 Second avenue, Bellevue Hospital.

James Danahay, thirty, of 30 Harrison street, prostrated while working on Pier 28, North River, Chambers street Hospital.

Mary Graff, sixteen, of 3434 Jay street, Brooklyn, was prostrated in front of her mother's house, St. Vincent's Hospital.

Frederick George, twenty-three, of 87 Ewen street, Brooklyn, overcome at Broadway and Third street, Eastern District Hospital.

Bernard Cecil, nineteen, of 161 Leonard street, Brooklyn, overcome in co-oper shop on Grand street, Eastern District Hospital.

St. Nicholas Allen, forty-three, of 54 Canton street, Brooklyn, overcome at Park avenue and Chancery street, St. Mary's Hospital.

Michael Dwyer, seventy-two, of New Haven, Conn., prostrated at 107 Greenwich street, St. Vincent's Hospital.

John H. Harding, thirty-one, residence unknown, found prostrated at Bowers and Third street, St. Vincent's Hospital.

At 1 o'clock the mercury had reached 95 degrees.

But even these figures do not show all that the sweltering New Yorker has to suffer to-day. Let him, by the necessity of his business, walk two blocks on the sunny side of the street, which would be done in about three minutes, and his blood will be heated to 109 degrees, as was demonstrated by the accommodating sergeant this morning by hanging his thermometer in the sun for three minutes.

In fifteen minutes the spirit in the tube rose to 117 degrees, and that is a fair showing of what the workman, excavating in Broadway suffer under to-day.

NOTICE I PRODUCE A COOL SUMMER

SEBASTIAN DUNN WRITING HIS REPORT.

Even Humidity Smith, in Commissioner Sheldahl's always cool court-room in the Post-office building, admits that it is "damned warm."

In lower Broadway a man advertises "water-proof clothes and suits," and at 10.30 he was doing a rushing business, while people had to wait for their turn at the soda-water fountain, and ice-cream was disappearing faster than a noonday sun could melt it.

Every other person on the streets carries a palm-leaf fan; street-car horses break down and have to be replaced every half hour; fat men sweat, and even the always cool, calm and collected typewriter is worried and drenched, the crinkle all taken out of her prizes, bags and crumple, and her cheeks burning with the glow of the day.

The man of brawn and muscle stands the heat much better than the overtired and sleek office man, and while the latter melts under the scorching of low-water, the former digs and hammers in the sun apparently unconcerned.

The City Hall tramp and the bare-legged newsboy are the only comfortable citizens to-day.

And for to-day is as follows:

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88.4 degrees.

The heat is still intense in Western Pennsylvania and along the lower lakes. Pittsburgh was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Boston and Baltimore were equal on the weather question, each having 84 degrees of sultriness.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Hot records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-4-5 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

Observer Dunn insists that this morning was the hottest spot in America, having 94 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 73; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 74; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

WALL ST. STOCK REPORTS.

Exchanges Nearly Depopulated by the Rush to the Suburban.

London a Large Seller in the New York Share Market.

Chicago Gas Sent Up Several Points To-Day's Quotations.

Prices were lower all around at the opening of business in the Stock Exchange this morning. London was a free seller, the forwarding of $1,600,000 billion to Russia having affected English exporters.

They sent cable orders to local brokers to sell Louisville and Nashville, St. Paul and other specialties. Our market took foreign offerings pretty well, and outside of Louisville and Nashville and Union Pacific the loss was only 1/4 to 1/2 per cent.

Louisville and Nashville was sold on a rumor that the dividend will be reduced. On the other hand it is reported that a foreign syndicate has guaranteed to take the new issue of stock for one per cent commission.

It is difficult to make the two statements tally, especially as London has been a foregone conclusion for some weeks.

The renomination by the Democrats of Gov. James E. Campbell for another term is also predicted safely warranted by the signs in the political sky, and the chief contest for the Exchange will be between McKinley and Campbell; the candidates for the other State offices being almost lost from sight in the great interest which centres in the leaders.

There are three conspicuous figures in today's Convention, Sherman, McKinley and Forsaker.

For some days many of his admirers have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The ambition of ex-Gov. Forsaker to succeed Sherman in the United States Senate, should the next Legislature be Republican, is well known, and the Forsaker men maintained that it would not be complying with the conditions of neutrality in relation to the election of McKinley.

It depended upon the action of the Committee on Organization today, and the result is as follows: Sherman was elected chairman, and the Forsaker men as a compromise, Gen. Bushnell is a man who has always kept clear of the politics of the day, and he is supposed to be a compromise.

As the Forsaker faction about this time began to talk about the election of Sherman, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

WALL ST. STOCK REPORTS.

Exchanges Nearly Depopulated by the Rush to the Suburban.

London a Large Seller in the New York Share Market.

Chicago Gas Sent Up Several Points To-Day's Quotations.

Prices were lower all around at the opening of business in the Stock Exchange this morning. London was a free seller, the forwarding of $1,600,000 billion to Russia having affected English exporters.

They sent cable orders to local brokers to sell Louisville and Nashville, St. Paul and other specialties. Our market took foreign offerings pretty well, and outside of Louisville and Nashville and Union Pacific the loss was only 1/4 to 1/2 per cent.

Louisville and Nashville was sold on a rumor that the dividend will be reduced. On the other hand it is reported that a foreign syndicate has guaranteed to take the new issue of stock for one per cent commission.

It is difficult to make the two statements tally, especially as London has been a foregone conclusion for some weeks.

The renomination by the Democrats of Gov. James E. Campbell for another term is also predicted safely warranted by the signs in the political sky, and the chief contest for the Exchange will be between McKinley and Campbell; the candidates for the other State offices being almost lost from sight in the great interest which centres in the leaders.

There are three conspicuous figures in today's Convention, Sherman, McKinley and Forsaker.

For some days many of his admirers have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The ambition of ex-Gov. Forsaker to succeed Sherman in the United States Senate, should the next Legislature be Republican, is well known, and the Forsaker men maintained that it would not be complying with the conditions of neutrality in relation to the election of McKinley.

It depended upon the action of the Committee on Organization today, and the result is as follows: Sherman was elected chairman, and the Forsaker men as a compromise, Gen. Bushnell is a man who has always kept clear of the politics of the day, and he is supposed to be a compromise.

As the Forsaker faction about this time began to talk about the election of Sherman, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

An announcement was at once made that, "McKinley men ask, see what you can do for them." It was a demonstration of the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise.

After the Sherman men's willingness to accept a compromise, the Sherman men were not slow to take advantage of the situation. They moved to substitute Bushnell's name for Sherman's, and the result was a tie.

In case the Committee on Organization selected the latter for permanent chairman, the Sherman men would have to accept him as a compromise.

WALL ST. STOCK REPORTS.

Exchanges Nearly Depopulated by the Rush to the Suburban.

London a Large Seller in the New York Share Market.

Chicago Gas Sent Up Several Points To-Day's Quotations.

Prices were lower all around at the opening of business in the Stock Exchange this morning. London was a free seller, the forwarding of $1,600,000 billion to Russia having affected English exporters.

They sent cable orders to local brokers to sell Louisville and Nashville, St. Paul and other specialties. Our market took foreign offerings pretty well, and outside of Louisville and Nashville and Union Pacific the loss was only 1/4 to 1/2 per cent.

Louisville and Nashville was sold on a rumor that the dividend will be reduced. On the other hand it is reported that a foreign syndicate has guaranteed to take the new issue of stock for one per cent commission.

It is difficult to make the two statements tally, especially as London has been a foregone conclusion for some weeks.

The renomination by the Democrats of Gov. James E. Campbell for another term is also predicted safely warranted by the signs in the political sky, and the chief contest for the Exchange will be between McKinley and Campbell; the candidates for the other State offices being almost lost from sight in the great interest which centres in the leaders.

There are three conspicuous figures in today's Convention, Sherman, McKinley and Forsaker.

For some days many of his admirers have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The ambition of ex-Gov. Forsaker to succeed Sherman in the United States Senate, should the next Legislature be Republican, is well known, and the Forsaker men maintained that it would not be complying with the conditions of neutrality in relation to the election of McKinley.

It depended upon the action of the Committee on Organization today, and the result is as follows: Sherman was elected chairman, and the Forsaker men as a compromise, Gen. Bushnell is a man who has always kept clear of the politics of the day, and he is supposed to be a compromise.

As the Forsaker faction about